

UNUSUAL IS NEW ELLANAY FILM

"Out of the Storm," the picture being shown at the El Paso theater, is unusual from several viewpoints. In the first place, it is a Rex Beach story and a Goldwyn production handled by a cast including Barbara Hutton, Sidney Alsworth, John Rogers and Doris Fawn, all excellent. The story is built around a romance that resulted after a shipwreck. The shipwreck scene is especially well done. It is realistic to the point of being appalling. Friends are torn apart and families separated. The sinking ship and the struggling victims in the stormy sea present one of the most wonderful scenes ever shown. Another unusual and interesting feature in the picture is the interior of a prison, and as the story develops, the escape of the prisoners and the setting and hair-raising pursuit. Interiors of beautiful English homes, consistent in every detail of furnishing, add to the picture's beauty. The whole picture is interesting, and all the best stage and screen developments and direction make the story exceptional. A. B.

Rare Operation On Broken Back Is Successful

An operation remarkable because of its rarity, was performed by Dr. R. P. Stevens on Francisco Miranda, a Mexican farm laborer, whose back was broken Wednesday. Miranda is in the county hospital. The operation was performed Thursday morning and was successful. It consisted in chipping fragments of bone from two broken vertebrae which were pressing on the spinal cord and causing paralysis from the waist down. This pressure would eventually have cut the spinal cord and caused permanent paralysis. The cord was unharmed. Miranda was riding on a load of hay which was being driven into a barn. The load was high and as the wagon passed through the door, Miranda was knocked off and was crushed under the wheels of the wagon, two vertebrae being broken. He was brought to El Paso by Dr. Will Rogers, who answered the call with an ambulance, and the operation was performed the next morning. The accident occurred on the P. A. Carpenter ranch near Anthony, N. M. Miranda is 40 years old. He has a family which lives with him on the Carpenter ranch.
